Two Churches Join In Reception For Mokena Pastor

A wonderful spirit of fellowship prevailed at the public reception tendered Rev. Glen T. Beatty, of the Mokena M. E. Church in honor of his recent ordination and return for another year to his charge, Monday evening in the M. E. church.

On the receiving line who welcomed all as they entered the church, were Mrs. Elmer Cooper, Rev. Beatty and Ona E. McGovney. A very splendid program had been prepared and was greatly enjoyed. Rev. Forrest Fields, pastor of the Tinley Park M. E. church and a close friend of Rev. Mr. Beatty for the past six years, was chairman of the evening.

A very significant part of the reception was the attendance of the Rev. W. J. Cramer, pastor of the St. John Evangelical church and that congregation, who had been invited, as well as the whole community.

The orchestra of St. John church furnished the music for evening, which to say the least, was great. Leon Tonn sang several songs and the Misses Hall and Evans, teachers in Mokena public school, sang several duets, one being a popular song, which they dedicated to Rev. Mr. Beatty, who recently announced his engagement with a fine young lady of Kansas City. The song was very timely as well as well rendered. It created much amusement.

Mrs. Wm. Semmler gave the address of welcome in behalf of the M. E. church and Sunday school. In a few chosen words she welcomed Rev. Beatty back for another year and congratulated him on his ordination into the Ministry, which took place at the M. E. Conference in Freeport, Ill., last month.

Mrs. J. V. Hall gave the address of welcome in behalf of the Ladies Aid Society. Rev. Fields gave a very interesting account of his intimate friendship with Mr. Beatty, dating back to the days when they started in the ministry in Oklahoma. Rev. Fields was known as "The Boy Preacher of Oklahoma" starting to preach when he was 18 years old.

The most significant event of the whole evening's program came when Rev. W. J. Cramer gave his address of Welcome in behalf of St. John church and the community in general.

Rev. Cramer stated that this was the first time in the history of St. John's the M. E. churches and the community, that these two congregations gathered together in such a spirit of good fellowship. He said that the pastors and congregations of all churches should forget creeds and dogmas and mingle with each other and work together in Christian harmony. He pointed out that there should only be one universal church, that of Jesus Christ. He further graphically pointed out, that people should not become fanatical on religion and feel that their particular creed or dogma was an assurance of salvation only, and hate those who did not agree with them. He said that it makes no difference to God whether you are a Methodist, Evangelical, Lutheran, Catholic or any other denomination, for this will not save you, but it all depends on the life you live. For, said he, in heaven there will be a big awakening for some of the fanatical church people, when they find all faiths gathered there and that they have no copyright on heaven. Rev. Mr. Cramer said that he and Rev. Mr. Beatty are blazing the trail for a friendlier spirit and a closer co-operation between the two churches and urged the two congregations to work together in a spirit of love and good fellowship.

He also plainly showed how some churches make a mockery of the Lord's prayer "Thy Kingdom Come" when they fight each other over a matter of creed and dogma which is of no value after all and thus deliberately fight against the coming of Christ's Kingdom on earth.

Rev. Mr. Beatty in response said he coincided with the remarks of love on the part of the two congregations and of the community. He found it hard to find words in which to express his appreciation, but he felt highly honored and said he will do all he can to serve his charge and community well.

He also advocated a spirit of love and fellowship between the church-

LETTER FROM FORMER ORLAND M. E. PASTOR

Kent, Indiana, October 26, 1926.
Editor of the News-Bulletin,
Mokena, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Semmler:-
For some years since we left our pastorate in Orland, we have received The News-Bulletin free of charge. We have never been able to learn who the kind friend was who had it sent to us. The paper is full of many interesting things, but we are always particularly delighted to get the news items from Orland where we spent three years in the Master's service. Thanks to the one who sent the paper for so many years to us. If he reads these lines let him address me a letter.

The years bring many changes to us. On August the 16th 1926 there was born to us a girl whom we have named Thelma Lucile. To the Editor of the News-Bulletin, and to all our friends we send the heartiest greetings and good wishes.

Very Sincerely,
Chas. C. Brown.

Tinley Park Show Drawing Crowds

Seminole Indian Medicine Co., giving Free Shows at the Community Hall in Tinley Park. Beautiful new auditorium, housing a worthy attraction.

The Don C. Hall Co., owners manufacturers and distributors of Seminole Indian Remedies opened a two weeks engagement at the Community Hall last Monday night and have been playing to very good audiences, although the weather has been rather disagreeable.

The entertainments presented by the Company have been giving splendid satisfaction, and there is an entire change of program every night and all free. The sketches character songs, and readings are staged by Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Hall and Don C. Hall Jr., and the musical program by Dr. T. A. Walters and Miss Leona Althouse. There are contests for the boys and girls given every night and contest of an interesting nature for old and young. Possibly the one attracting the most attention, is the Popular Lady Contest in which there are a number of ladies enrolled including Mildred Nielsen, Esther Louau, Esther Meserlin, Ruth Bettenhausen, Leona Simon, Leona Andres, Mrs. J. Schafer, Agnes Brueggemann and Dorothy Goebel. The prize is a beautiful seven piece Silver plated, gold lined bon bon set.

The bean guessing contest is also creating much interest. There is a contest for the girls announced for Saturday night and this ought to be an interesting feature as a number of the girls are preparing songs, dances and speaking for this occasion.

These entertainments are clean and wholesome, and everybody enjoys a hearty laugh at the comedy sketches and witty sayings. The songs and music selections well merit applause. And the Lectures by Don C. Hall are interesting and instructive.

The engagement continues the rest of this and all next week, with an entire change every night and all free. We bespeak for this worthy organization packed houses for the balance of their stay in Tinley Park.

PRIZE BUNCO PARTY AT ST. MARY'S HALL, NOV. 17TH

Be sure and reserve your date for November 17th when a prize bunco party will be held at the St. Mary Hall, Mokena. Beautiful as well as useful prizes will be given.

NEW DRAINAGE DIST. FOR ORLAND TOWNSHIP, IS PLANNED

Work has been started in making plans for a new drainage district to be organized in the town of Orland. The new ditch is to begin on the Philip Ebling farm and run for two miles to Alpine. Attorney A. H. Krusemark has the legal side of the organization work.

es and the community.

At the close of the program the "How Do You Do" Song was sung naming the three pastors. Following this refreshments were served.

The whole affair certainly was a fine example of the right Christian spirit and it is hoped will draw the community closer together than ever before and help to perpetuate the true Christian spirit.

Ministrel Coming To St. Mary's Hall Mokena Nov. 12

On Friday, November 12th a big minstrel show will be presented at the St. Mary Hall, Mokena, under the direction of Rev. Eocrie, director of the De Soto Dramatic Club and Frank Limacher, director of the Arion Glee Club of Joliet. It will be presented by the De Soto Players, The Arion Glee Club and other stars from Joliet. The De Soto Players need no introduction. They have staged several plays before in Mokena, such as "The Divorce Question", "Molly Bawn" and others. The Arion Glee Club is considered as the best in Joliet. Thirty-five men will form one of the best choruses ever heard here. Fred Dames, Art Wilhelm, Ray Ebner, Jack Davis will star as the comedians. Jack Meade, a radio star will delight the audience with his singing. The stage is equipped with new scenery. Costumes are of the De Luxe style. There will be other attractions. In short every effort will be made to give you a first class minstrel and to put a smile of happiness on your face that will not wear off. Remember the date, Friday Nov. 12th.

The regular Friday night movie will be omitted for the week of November 12th on account of the minstrel.

The Bridge Question

Somebody is asking why the delay in the building of the bridge between Mokena and Tinley Park. This party has not been reading the paper, for it was published in this paper a couple of times why the delay. Stating it was a state and county job being paid by the same. The county let a contract for this bridge costing $4400. I am the overseer on this job and will also be paid by the county. If the contractor is losing money this party will have to ask the Zimmerman Bridge Company. That is not any of the Frankfort Township officials business. I want to let the public know that there was not anybody sleeping on the job. I wish this party would come around and look things over and see what work was to be done on this little bridge and not stand back and knock. Everybody knows weather conditions have held the work back. This little bridge will soon be completed and Frankfort Township can feel proud of this little bridge. If you wish any more information you can consult with the Supervisor, Town Clerk or Highway Commissioner on anything that is being done in Frankfort Township.

EMIL D. CAPPEL,
Highway Com.

Not Opposed To Street Paving

A report has been current that a number of property owners living on Kirchen street in Tinley Park were opposed to the new $17,000 concrete street paving project and that they had consulted with Attorney Krusemark about fighting the matter, but the residents along the street in question declare they are all for the proposed improvement and are not fighting it nor consulting lawyers about opposing it. That is fine and the right spirit to take to boom the town.

Dick Henke of Tinley Dies

Dick Henke, aged 75 years, an old settler of Bremen Township died Tuesday afternoon. He has been in poor health for sometime. He was born in this section and resided here all his life. He is survived by his widow, one daughter Mrs. Katherine Bloom of Matteson and one brother, Fred Henke, president of the Bremen State bank One daughter, Mrs. Dick Siebrandt and one son George Henke died a few years ago.

Tinley Real Estate Proves Valuable

That Tinley Park real estate is very valuable was demonstrated the past few weeks when Wm. Funk purchased a strip of land of 40 feet frontage from Mr. and Mrs. George Ehlers for a reported consideration of $2400. The Ehlers home is on this land and is to be torn down. The property adjoins Mr. Funk's new home.

FRANKFORT DANCING SEASON CLOSES

The open air dancing season of the Frankfort Industrial Club at the Borman Grove came to a close last Saturday night. The dances running thru the summer season, have been very largely attended.

First Democratic Sheriff For Will Co. in 36 Years

Will County politics took a queer kink in Tuesday's election, when this rock-ribbed Republican county elected a Democratic sheriff, the first time in 36 years that a Democrat has been elected to this office. The fight was between Alvah M. Weston and Albert E. Markgraf. After the smoke of the political battle cleared away the unofficial returns showed that the vote stood as follows:

Markgraf, Democrat 14,209
Weston, Republican 13,423

Markgraf's majority 786

Since the official returns have come in Markgraf's majority has shown an increase and at the latest returns his majority over Weston has reached 927.

In Frankfort township which normally is Republican there was a heavy Democratic vote. In Frankfort which is precinct 1 of that township Markgraf received 193 votes and Weston 130. In Mokena, which is precinct 2 of Frankfort township there was a heavy Republican vote, Weston receiving 190 votes and Markgraf 88 votes.

New Lenox township went Republican as usual, Weston receiving 306 votes and Markgraf 114.

The winners in Will County are as follows:

SHERIFF
Albert E. Markgraf, Democrat
COUNTY JUDGE
Ralph C. Austin, Republican
PROBATE JUDGE
Fred R. Adams, Republican
COUNTY CLERK
Albion F. Delander, Republican
PROBATE CLERK
Frank W. Wheeler, Republican
COUNTY TREASURER
Walter G. Krohn, Republican
CO. SUPT. OF SCHOOLS
August Maue, Republican

Forest Preserve For Will County

The few remaining tracts of wood land in Will County have been protected against the ravages of commercialism with the establishment of a Forest Preserve similar to the one in Cook County. The establishment of a Forest Preserve for Will County was voted on at Tuesday's election and the proposition went over big with a majority of 8,214. The vote was as follows:

For 13,358
Against 5,144
Majority 8,214

BENEFIT PICNIC NETS $424.51

The benefit picnic which was recently given by the Frankfort Industrial Club for Herbert Nieland went over big according to the following official figures: Tickets sold 580; receipts $424.51

Corn Husking Contest

At a meeting of the Will County Farm Bureau Executive Committee held Monday afternoon, November 1 it was decided to hold a corn husking contest in Will County so as to select a champion for the State Contest to be held by the Prairie Farmer on Friday, Nov. 12. At this meeting a committee of 3 men was selected to handle the project. Mr. Wm. Webb, President of the Farm Bureau, Mr. Royal Dixon and Mr. E. L. Wilson compose the committee.

The committee has selected the farm of Michael Hayden in Florence Township, telephone Elwood, 22-R1 to hold the contest on. Mr. Hayden has a corn field one-half a mile long which will make an excellent place for the contest. The contest will take place on Tuesday, November 9 at 1 p. m.

Each contestant should bring his own wagon if possible. No arrangements have been made to secure wagons but if anyone living in distant corners of the county desires to husk and if it is impossible to bring a wagon, the committee will endeavor to make arrangements for these men unless there are too many contestants for the community to supply wagons.

The contest is open to anyone who desires to compete but in order to enter this contest it will be necessary that the committee know not later than 9 a. m., Monday, Nov. 8. Either write the Will County Farm Bureau, Terminal Building, Joliet, Illinois, or call them by telephone, phone number Joliet 3593. All husking will be done by the rules sent out by the Prairie Farmer.

J Train Hits Auto at Frankfort Crossing; Arthur Buck, Driver Suffers Fractured Skull; Dies

Albert A. Buck, 18 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Buck of Frankfort, suffered a fractured skull, when an automobile in which he was crossing the "J" tracks near the Frankfort depot was struck by an east bound freight train at 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Picked up from the wreckage of the automobile which was jammed into an empty freight car about 100 feet up the track from the crossing, the boy was carried into the depot by the train crew, headed by Engineer G. C. Senzen.

The engineer summoned Dr. W. V. Hedges, Frankfort physician, who ordered the boy taken to the Silver Cross Hospital, Joliet. On examination, Dr. Hedges found that the youth's skull had been fractured and that his condition was critical.

According to Mr. Senzen, the train approaches the crossing from the blind side and he could not see the automobile from the engine cab. He said that the train was moving at the rate of 25 miles an hour, and stopped within 100 feet of the crossing.

The train crew found the boy pinned beneath the automobile, which did not overturn, but had been jammed into a freight car. Young Buck was riding alone. He was returning from a dance held by the Frankfort Industrial Club a mile north of Frankfort, to his brother John Buck's farm, located nine miles south of Frankfort where he was employed.

Arriving at the crossing at 1:30 o'clock, the boy stopped his machine to allow a west-bound train to pass and then proceeded into the path of the approaching east-bound train. The depot obstructed his view and he could not see the second train.

Two freight trains pass the crossing within three minutes of each other.

The boy died early Tuesday morning as a result of the injuries sustained.

Double funeral services in both English and German were held Friday afternoon with the Rev. G. S. Gerhold officiating and also the Rev. O. Luth of North Peotone. Services were held at the home at 1:30 o'clock, concluding at the St. Peter's Evangelical church. Burial in the North Peotone cemetery.

Prepares to Leave Landmark 100 Years Old

Edward Roemer, residing near Tinley Park is rushing work on a new house which when completed will mean the passing of another old landmark as the house Mr. Roemer is about to vacate is over 100 years old. The old house was built before Chicago was a city and this section was the wild open prairie. Mr. Roemer expects to be in his new home by Thanksgiving.

How Can We Make Mokena Grow?

We recently ran an offer to pay a cash prize for the best article on the subject "How to Make a Town of Mokena". Here is the first of a series of articles we are going to publish on the subject:

MY OPINION

In answer to the question "What Can Be Done to Make a Town of Mokena" wish to say the first thing to do is to create home industry. When we have to go to other cities to earn our living, we need too many expensive clothes. Extra car fare, lunch, etc., means more expenditure and in the end we have little left to contribute to anything that is worth talking about.

People who are either too old or for other reasons cannot make a living by going to the city have no way open for them to get means to meet their obligations, what are we going to do about it, leave Mokena as people do every day? That will not make a town of Mokena.

If the man or woman who has a little plot of land and works all summer raising a little garden stuff and takes a half peck of onions to the store to trade for a loaf of bread and the merchant says "No, I can't buy them, I just got a sack from the city yesterday" will he help to make Mokena a town? Not to my opinion. Create home industry and Mokena will grow by itself.

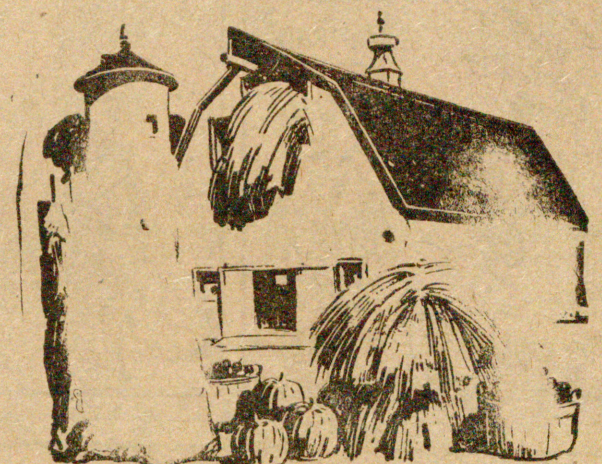

M S Bonnes, Mokena

This is vital question and there ought to be many public spirited citizens in Mokena who can give us more ideas how to improve the town and put in the pep it needs. There are so many contributing reasons for the rise or decline of a community. Everyone likes to see their community forge ahead in the way of progress and it takes the whole hearted support and action of the residents of the community to bring it about. Let us have your ideas and by comparing the various suggestions perhaps something may develop that will be for the betterment and advancement of Mokena.

In order to grow a town must offer something that will attract the people. What does Mokena offer that will bring new residents to the community? What can we do to get the desirable people to make their homes in our midst? These are all questions of real importance and are worth thinking over. Send or bring in your ideas on these lines.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of Walter Pfaff and Gilbert Knater of Frankfort as game wardens for the newly organized Eastern Will County Game Protective Association. Many farmers have joined this association and hunters without a written permit to hunt will be arrested. The pheasant season will open soon and a strict watch against lawless hunting will be maintained.

THE WORLD'S GREAT EVENTS

ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

Joan of Arc

THE great presence-chamber of the French court was crowded to the doors. On a dais at the upper end of the room sat a gorgeously attired man, surrounded by flattering courtiers. Into that brilliant assemblage a poor peasant girl was ushered. Her tanned face was homely, but lighted by unusually large, melancholy eyes. She was Joan, the peasant's daughter of Domremy.

Her eyes swept the gay court, rested indifferently on the gaudy form in the chair of state, then passed on to a far corner of the room, where she singled out a plainly dressed man who stood unnoticed in a lesser group of courtiers. Going up to this man, she knelt before him, saying: "You are Charles, the dauphin (crown prince) of France!"

A murmur of amazement ran through the listening crowd. The dauphin raised the peasant girl to her feet. The smile of derision that had curled his lips gave place to a look of awe. Joan of Arc's career had begun.

France and England had for centuries been bitter foes. They were forever at war with each other. (These wars endured at intervals until the battle of Waterloo, in 1815.) France had been repeatedly beaten by the better-disciplined islanders. Invasion after invasion on the part of the English had torn away more and more French territory and had annexed it to England. Edward III had several times invaded France, and his son, "the Black prince," in the battles of Crecy and of Poitiers (1336 and 1356) had wrecked France's military power.

The Black prince has come down through history as the very flower of chivalry; whereas, as a matter of fact, he was a brutal freebooter.

Later, Henry V of England had further subdued France, until, early in the Fifteenth century, England had conquered all the country north of the River Loire, and the infant son of Henry V was crowned not only king of England but of France as well—France, lying helpless, almost passive, in the grip of her British masters. Charles, son of the French king and rightful heir to the French throne, should have been crowned on his father's death, but he had no genius or ambition and was content to spend his time in idleness and dissipation, uncrowned, while his kingdom slipped away from his nerveless hands.

Affairs had reached this point when Joan of Arc appeared. She had passed her childhood in the forest of Domremy, at the edge of the province of Lorraine, where she tended her father's flocks, excelled at household arts and repelled all offers of love. She could neither read nor write. But she had heard of the prophecy made of old by the magician, Merlin, that France, in the hour of dire need, should be saved by a maiden. Tradition had added that the maiden should come from Domremy. Joan brooded over this prophecy in her long hours of solitude in fields and woods until she hypnotized herself into the belief that she heard divine voices telling her she was the Holy Maid destined to rescue her country from ruin.

At this juncture the English captured Orleans, the way to all southern France. Joan declared that the "voices" bade her to wrest Orleans from the invader and to crown Charles at Reims. With this double aim in view, and backed by the clamor of popular feeling, she secured an interview with Charles. To deceive her, he decked out a courtier in his royal robes, and himself stood, disguised, in a remote corner. Joan at once saw through the imposture. So impressed was Charles that he gave her an army of about 4,500 men and sent her against Orleans.

She had no military knowledge, no education of any sort. Yet she had absolute faith in her own inspiration, and she inspired her soldiers with the same belief. Incidentally, she worked strongly upon the superstitious fears of the English. Clad in mail and carrying a sacred banner, she rode at the head of her fanatical army, captured Orleans, beat the English in battle after battle and drove them helter-skelter beyond the Loire. Then she returned and assisted at Charles' coronation at Reims.

Her double mission thus accomplished, she begged leave to go back to her flock and the quiet life of her village. But Charles would not hear of it. He ennobled her and her family and sent her to wrest Paris from the English. In vain she pleaded that she had no further divine call. Charles relied on the fanatic enthusiasm of her soldiers to sweep all before them. So she obeyed. But she was henceforth no more than a mere woman. On September 8, 1429, she attacked Paris, but was beaten back and wounded. Her luck—or divine power—was gone. Soon afterward she was captured. Charles, who owed her his kingdom, made no effort to ransom or rescue her.

The English tried her as a sorceress and a heretic. Although no crime or deceit could be proven against her, they pronounced her guilty, and on May 30, 1431, burned her at the stake. Thus died Joan of Arc, holy martyr-maid, and the bravest, purest patriot the world has ever known.

Chicago Clerk Approves Tanlac

Nervousness and Sour Stomach Following Diphtheria Ravaged Health.

"After a siege of diphtheria I was in such bad shape, so weak and run-down, that I thought I would never regain health," says Miss Viola Powell, 124 E. 26th St., Chicago.

"Food that I ate soured on my stomach. I could not exert myself without suffering from headaches and dizziness. I was so nervous that nights were just hours of thinking, restless turning and tossing. I never felt rested."

"Tanlac cleansed my system, gave me an appetite for food, relieved my stomach trouble and soothed my nerves. It has put me in the best of health and I enjoy life, both work and recreation."

"Tanlac builds up scrawny, weak bodies, drives out causes of suffering and gives the body good health. Made from roots, barks and herbs. Take wonderful Tanlac. At your druggist's. Over 40 million bottles sold."

Marjorie: "What do you think John said, daddy, when I told him that when we were married I wanted a city residence, a country place, three autos and a lot of servants?"

Daddy: "Well, what did the paragon say?"

Marjorie: "He said that if I would sleep more on my right side, I wouldn't have such dreams."

Had dreams are a good sign of poor digestion; when hard-worked stomach begins to complain, the whole system suffers and we have constipation, dyspepsia, offensive breath and similar disorders.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has been relied on by many such sufferers for the past sixty years, and has contributed to the health and well-being of thousands of users, who use 30c bottles. At all druggists. If you cannot get it, write to G. G. Green, Inc., Woodbury, N. J.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

(© 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN SHOULD TONSILS BE REMOVED?

THE removal of enlarged or diseased tonsils in children has become so common an operation that it is in many cases done almost as a routine proceeding. Naturally the question has arisen, not only in the minds of parents but of physicians as well, whether it is in all cases necessary, or rather, to put it another way, in what condition is it really necessary? In how many and in what cases will the removal of the tonsils be clearly of benefit to the child, and in what cases will actual harm to the child result from not removing them.

To answer these questions requires not only a large number of cases but also observation of the children over a long period of time and a careful comparison of those children who have had their tonsils removed with an equally large number of children whose tonsils have not been removed, or what scientific men call "control cases."

These conditions, by no means easy to secure, were fortunately furnished in Rochester, N. Y., by the Eastman clinic.

In a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association Dr. Albert Kaiser reports on 18,000 children who came to the institute for treatment.

About five years ago 18,000 school children were found to have enlarged tonsils and their parents were advised that these tonsils should be removed. Over one half of the children failed to return for operation. Over 8,000, however, returned and had their tonsils removed. At the end of a year 5,000 of these were examined, and at the end of three years 2,500 were re-examined.

So the figures now stand: Number of children with some defect or disease in their tonsils, 18,000; number in whom tonsils were removed, 8,000; number examined at the end of one year, 5,000; number examined at the end of three years, 2,400.

To give all the details of this work is impossible. We can only give Doctor Kaiser's conclusions on this large amount of work, as to what complaints are good reasons for removing tonsils.

They are: 1, mouth breathing; 2, frequent attack of sore throat or tonsillitis; 3, frequent head colds; 4, enlargement of the glands of the neck; 5, poor nutrition where other causes have been removed; 6, chronic discharge from the ear; 7, fever for which no other cause can be found; 8, rheumatism or heart disease, since it was found that children whose tonsils had been removed had far less of such troubles than those whose tonsils had not been removed.

FORERUNNERS OF THE HOT WATER BAG

PROBABLY no household appliance is put to as many uses as the family hot water bag. If any one has a headache, a sprained or rheumatic joint, a pain in the back, or cold feet at night, the hot water bag is ordered into action.

What did people do before there were any hot water bags? For it is only a few years, comparatively, certainly not over fifty, since the manufacture of rubber bags has been possible. So we do not have to go very far back to come in contact with the predecessors of hot water bags.

Many of our grandmothers can recall when there were no other methods of applying dry heat than bricks, flat irons, glass bottles filled with hot water, sand bags and salt bags heated in the ovens of the big wood-burning cook stoves, until hot and then wrapped in towels or flannels and used to warm cold beds, to apply to aching jaws in toothache, to aching heads and to warm patients during chills in malaria.

In old colonial houses and in some cases in old garrets are still to be found the old-fashioned warming pans, a brass dish like a skillet with a close cover and a long handle, which was filled with live coals and hot wood ashes and used to heat up the ice cold beds of our ancestors.

The history of various household utensils by which one could keep warm away from his own fireside goes far back into early institutions. The earliest and most natural thing to do, even when man lived around an open fire, was to fill a metal or earthenware pot or pan with coals and carry it. The plan probably led to the invention of the Greek and Roman brazier, which warmed the halls on chilly days in Greece and Rome. Later in the centuries, individual warming pots, or "warming apples," hollow metal balls filled with hot ashes, were carried by priests and worshippers to keep them warm in the cold churches of the Middle Ages.

An unusual and historic foot warmer is still to be seen in the great museum of Leipzig. It is the stirrup which Emperor Napoleon used on his Russian campaign. Under each stirrup swings a little kettle which was filled, each morning with glowing charcoal. Evidently Napoleon, brilliant general though he was, had cold feet occasionally.

Cows Saved Owner From Mother Bear

Climbing up a 60-foot spruce tree with a black mother bear close behind him, slashing at his feet as he ascended, Dave Irons, a rancher of Sickle, in the Caribou district of British Columbia, was saved from serious injury and possible death by his own cows, who came running and bellowing to his rescue just as Irons had reached the uppermost limb, says the Vancouver Province.

The bear had by this time lightened the farmer of his gum boots and had made several nasty gashes in his leg. The cows hearing their master's voice—he came regularly to put salt on their "trails"—gathered around the foot of the tree, distracting the bear's attention, and she descended hurriedly to protect two tiny cubs which had taken refuge in the second tree, close to the one Irons had climbed.

The rancher had met many bears before, but they had always turned off the trail at his approach. He has now increased the cows' salt allowance.

Gold Locked in Hills of Kansas

"Thar's gold in them hills," says D. C. Daisy, famous old prospector, "but try to get it."

The land to which Daisy refers is the valley of the Arkansas river, where there's enough gold to pay the national debt, he says.

Daisy says it is well known that through the centuries the Rockies have worn away several hundred feet. Gold and silver formations were displaced and washed downstream, the same as other matter. Gold in the Arkansas valley has been badly scattered, however. The sand and overflow have allowed the gold by this time to seep through to bedrock. Until some instrument is invented to locate the gold, Daisy says the riches of the Arkansas will be locked up as securely as if they were in a vault.

Long Island Soil Rich

Long Island is a model place for market gardens, the soil being from two to six feet in depth, with enough phosphate to last under ordinary circumstances for about 40,000 years, and potash to last double that length of time, if estimates of soil conditions are correct as made by some experts.

Sympathy, like ambition, has to be translated into action to be worth anything.

A shiftless man can always blame his wife for his failure to make good.

Teaching For Mastery

By Prof. Clarence Uhl, Mokena

They do no home study except as they become so interested that they cannot rest until they have mastered the problem in hand. When the students have read everything available and feel that they understand the Slavery Problem the instructor gives an examination to test whether the children really understand what it was all about, know the issues involved, see the problems of the Negro in the United States, have overcome their little prejudices and are really fully awake to the whole situation. The examination that is given in this connection is usually a Best Answer test. On a certain vital question there are four or five answers given. One answer is the very best answer according to the authors they have read, the next is slightly inferior but is a good answer, the next answer is a partial or a fair answer, the next is poor and the last answer is entirely off the subject. The students are asked to mark these answers with certain symbols according to their merit. The number of such questions vary with the size of the unit. The instructor knows definitely if the class has mastered the unit. If they have not, he gives them an opportunity for more reading and explains any difficulty that they cannot overcome. He then re-tests, not for the purpose of seeing whether the students have attained mastery. If all have mastered the unit except two or three in a large class these are considered problem cases for this unit and are given special attention outside of the class period. Their cases are diagnosed and they are given remedial treatment on the side. Then the pupils put away all notes and prepare an outline to see if they are satisfactory; if any of them are not he returns them with a few pertinent suggestions and the pupils are asked to correct them. A few members of the class give an oral presentation of the unit. The others turn in a written report or miniature theses. In this way thorough mastery has been attained by all and there is no need of get-by or flunk grades. They have a general knowledge of the whole question as well as a much larger appreciative mass in the background; they have been learning to study effectively and purposefully; they see the relation of the slavery question to our modern problems and have a definite knowledge of how to proceed in solving these problems. They have a living interest in current problems and a burning desire to make our present situation better and the future safe for Democracy.

More Rye This Year

(Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation)

American thumbs have always been turned down where rye for table purposes is concerned. Most of our rye crop has been exported to Europe and the bulk of the remainder fed to farm animals, according to a survey by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. This year, however, a crop of 42,000,000 bushels is expected and less than usual will be sent to Europe as their crops will also be fairly large. This fact, coupled with feed-crop failures in many of our rye-growing sections, means that more of our rye crop will be fed to farm animals this year than usual. Hogs, on an average, consume 53.4% of the rye used on the farm, horses 26.5%, poultry 14.6% and cattle 5.3%.

Chickens Top Wheat Eaters

(Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation)

Wheat and flour are synonymous in the minds of many. As a matter of fact, however, forty per cent of our mammoth wheat crop never leaves the farm at all, but is used for seed purposes and feeding farm animals, states the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in a survey recently completed on wheat consumption. It is used most abundantly for feeding in those sections of the country having a wheat surplus and a shortage of the usual feed crops such as corn, oats and barley. The poorer qualities of wheat, not suited for making flour, are kept behind for this purpose.

Chickens are the heaviest consumers of wheat fed on the farm using 59.1% of all wheat so distributed. Swine are next, with 29.1%. In wheat-growing sections horses are fed wheat and consume on an average 5.4% of all wheat fed on the farm, while the remaining 6.4% goes to cattle.

ADVERTISE IN THE NEWS-BULLETIN

MOKENA

John Klose who recently underwent an operation at Joliet, is improving nicely.

The annual bazaar held by the Ladies Aid of the St. John Evangelical church last Wednesday, was a huge success financially and socially. A big supper was served and a very big crowd was fed.

A cradle party for the little folks was held at the St. John Evangelical church Wednesday. All had a delightful time.

John Liess, the village treasurer who has been very ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harvey Reah, has improved so well that he is now able to be about and is back in his own home again.

Mrs. J. E. Woods who recently returned home from the Silver Cross hospital, is convalescing nicely.

Mokena M. E. Notes

Sunday school at 10:30 a. m.
Evening Preaching Service 7:00 p. m.

The pastor wishes to thank the members of the church, and especially the committee in charge, for the reception tendered him last Monday night. He appreciated the sentiments of friendship shown by the attendance of so many from throughout the community. Because of this friendship he feels last Monday night to have been the crowning event of all his ministry. His only hope is that all the people may know of his love for them and his desire to serve where ever needed. Service is his only means of thanking all who participated in this reception, the committee, the orchestra, the soloists, the pianists, the preachers, the laymen from all the community.

The services next Sunday Evening will be of interest, both in the light of the National Educational Observance, and because of the approaching Armistice Day. The sermon will be "Some of Our National Problems and our Christian Education."

Have been passed off without any serious consequences. Soaping of dows and few other stunts were played. The only unpleasant incident occurred at the home of Mrs. Florence Hamilton when some boys used rather vile language with the result that officer John Frisch was called and placed one of the naughty boys in the village jail to think it over.

The W. N. Lathrop family are planning on moving to Chicago in the near future on account of Mr. Lathrop's work. As it now is he has to take an early train in to the city and comes back on a late one which makes it very inconvenient.

Last Sunday's football game once again showed the fighting spirit of the team after having 6 points scored against them in the first few minutes of play. With one minute to play in the first half, their end received a pass and ran 60 yards but was brought down on the one-yard line by Heiman. Kohler and Sorensen were in the backfield for a short time and made gains when they made the ball. Walsh recovered two fumbles and played a good hard game. Phil Hacker played his first game at end and smeared the Chicago team for good losses. Marti played a wonderful game at the end with Benson, Evert and McGovney keeping their part in defense. Hall and Whitaker each scored a touch down and one goal was kicked, the final score being 13 to 6 in favor of Mokena. The next game is with the Chicago Heights Teddy Bears at Schiek's field, November 7th.

SMART ONE-PIECE CLOTH DRESS; NOVELTIES IN STYLISH HATS

AS TO "button, button, who's got the button," there are none missing this season within fashion's domain. The stylist is not losing sight of a button of any description, employing myriads of them either in a useful or an ornamental way. In consequence, button counters present a scene of unusual animation, for choosing buttons for one's new frock or coat has become a matter of outstanding importance.

The mode smiles approvingly on the practical yet smartly styled cloth frock which buttons up the front like the one shown in the picture. For the tailored twill, flannel or crepe wool frock. Soft-colored, large buttons are considered good form, or cloth-covered ones if so preferred.

Fashion, however, does not expect one to be unerringly practical when it comes to the buttons we sew on our frocks and our coats. At the sight of the adorable jeweled buttons which are making their appearance in such great numbers this season, one loses zest for things too utilitarian and prosaic. That is why so many of the pretty crepe and silken frocks fairly sparkle with buttons set in rhinestones. At throat and at girdle link jeweled buttons prove a beautifying touch to many a costume. The velvet frock, which leads all others this season, in black or in color, needs no other embellishment to lend to its enchantment if there be link rhinestone buttons positioned advantageously at neck and at waistline.

From buttons to buckles is not a far cry, and if the one does not perform the act of fastening the belt or girdle, the other does. Especially is this true in regard to the popular redingote dress models which are clasped together at the front waistline.

Millinery, ever capricious and always doing the unexpected thing, is giving some extra thrills this season. There is, for instance, the matter of draping which is truly extraordinary. Especially do close-fitting turban styles emphasize the curious and the eccentric. The picturesque African draped headdress happens to be the inspiration of one of the noted French modistes. Another leading designer adopts the Russian effects. All are charming and are proving popular with lovers of charming millinery this season.

In materials no less of novelty is expressed. Flat furs, notably shaved lamb and spotted calfskin as supple as any fabric, supply another sensation in the millinery story for this season.

Then, too, the prevalence of exquisite beige velours helps turn the bon-trimmed hat pictured in the lower left corner of the group shown above. Concluding this group of stylish hats is a turban most cunningly draped with a drop-side effect and two smart-looking spikes piercing the felt flap most effectively.

Among other imported models using flat fur is a striking African draped model made of alternating rows of black and gray shaved lamb.

Navajo Indians Afflicted

It is officially stated that the Navajo Indians are suffering from widespread trachoma, a disease which leads to blindness, and that probably one-third of the remaining members of this tribe are afflicted. A material affliction of this same tribe is the absence of good wells on their lands. Great areas are practically useless because of the lack of water.

ORLAND

ORLAND M. E. CHURCH
Moving pictures Friday November 5th: Harry Langdon in the famous comedy "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp." This is the first of a new schedule of pictures for the winter months.

Sunday November 7th: Bible school at 9:30. The Sunday school stands for the religious training of childhood, youth and maturity. We all fit in somewhere in this classification, are you availing yourself of its opportunities?

Morning worship at 10:30 The third sermon in the general series of "What We Most Need and How To Get It" will be given. Worship is something which The Church Particularly Promotes And Supports. What sleep is to the body—and much more—worship is to the soul, the inner life. We really cannot live, though we may exist without the practice of worship. Do you live or are you just existing?

Evening service at 7:45. Next Sunday evening we will have a slight innovation at the evening service. Come out and see how you like it. After the preliminary service the discussion of the general theme "How to Know God" will be resumed. The next topic is "Some Ways In Which Folks Have Found God". The pastor is the leader of these meetings. You should enjoy these discussions.

At the morning service on Sunday, October 31st the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gee, Jr., was presented for baptism and given the name of Virginia Moore Gee.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gee, Sr., the young daughter Ruth Helen Gee, was presented for baptism by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Edward A. Gee of Chicago.

Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Setterlund and family were dinner and afternoon guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gee, Sr., on Sunday afternoon. A number of other guests from Orland and Chicago were present.

A Halloween Social was held at the church basement on Saturday evening October 30. A number of the younger people were out and had a splendid time.

Mr. Thomas Richards is still at the Wabash Hospital at Decatur, Illinois. At this writing it would appear that he will be a patient for some days yet.

Achievement Night at the Orland Public School was presented last Thursday evening and scored both a good attendance and a genuine success, according to those who attended it.

ORLAND LUTH.

The ladies of the Ladies Aid are working hard for their bazaar supper to be held on November 10 in afternoon and evening. It will be bigger and better than ever, supper will be served from 4:30 to 7 p. m. Many chickens will lose their lives to be served for the chicken dinner. Those who prefer veal will have their taste satisfied.

A furnace has been installed in the parsonage by the Sunbeam Heating Company and is giving thorough satisfaction.

Next Sunday service will be German at 10 a. m. Sunday School at 9 a. m.

The night of Halloween passed quietly, just the usual pranks being played by some of the irresponsible boys.

FRANKFORT

The Halloween entertainment given at the Frankfort Public School by the pupils and teachers last Friday evening drew a large crowd. The program was well rendered and the candy and fortune teller booths were well patronized and enjoyed. Luncheon was served and the proceeds of the evening were $85.

Mrs. Frank Cheney entertained the Pinochle club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Cards were played at three tables, prizes awarded Mrs. Herbert Bruggeman and Mrs. Herbert Minger. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ed. Fuss on November 12th.

Mrs. Max Haass entertained 15 guests Thursday evening at dinner in honor of Mr. Haass' birthday. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed.

John Hansen has returned from from Iowa where he was called by the death of sister.

Thru an error in last week's issue, it was stated that Mrs. F. Fink was treasurer of the Home Improvement Club, this should have read, Mrs. Frankie Tinker.

Mrs. Geo. Andrews is Director of this club. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. Rider on November 18th.

The Amite Sewing Club will meet with Mrs. Herbert Gullickson at her home in Joliet, Tuesday evening Nov. 9th This will be a sewing meeting.

Fred Warning and Max Haass attended the October Ceremonial of the Shriners in Joliet Friday evening.

Ezra Marti, son of Fred Marti, is ill at his home with diphtheria. The hired man of Geo. Eisenbrand is also ill with same disease.

Mrs. Conrad Sipple visited recently with her sister Mrs. Gertrude Scheer who has been ill at the home of her daughter in Englewood.

Mrs. Wesley Hollstein entertained the Ladies Aid society of the First M. E. church of Green Garden at her home in Frankfort Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. Otto Frey of Green Garden M. E. churches, officiated at the Communion service in Tinley Park, German M. E. church Sunday morning and evening. He left Monday for Kewana, Wis., where he will conduct revival services for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark entertained company Sunday in honor of their son Ted's birthday.

Mrs. Fred Weitendorf has purchased the residence of Chas. Peters. Leona and Vera Haake of Homewood spent the week end at the Wm. Wischover home and also attended the Halloween entertainment at the school Friday night.

The Frankfort Methodist Sunday school held their annual election of officers Friday evening at the parsonage. Mr. Willard Owen was re-elected Supt., Wesley Hollstein, assistant Supt., Elizabeth Owen, Secretary, Lolita Bettenhausen, Treas., Lucile La Hue Librarian, Anna Lorenzen Asst. Librarian, Mrs. Frank Kohlhaugen Primary Supt. and Cradle Roll Supt. and Mrs. G. Andrew Missionary Supt.

Mrs. Chas. Pfeifer, Mrs. Ervin Warning, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schoeneck visited Mrs. Norman Schoeneck in the Harvey Memorial hospital last Sunday.

Three autos collided on the north road to Bowman Grove last Saturday night, all three cars were damaged.

Mrs. N. Andres of Virginia, Minn who has been spending several days here with relatives and friends left for her home Wednesday morning.

Palos Park

The Woman's Aid of the Palos Park Church is to serve a dinner at the club house on Armistice day, the dinner to be followed by an appropriate program. Dinner for adults 75 cents—children 50 cents.

In connection with the planning of the dinner there is an interesting little story:

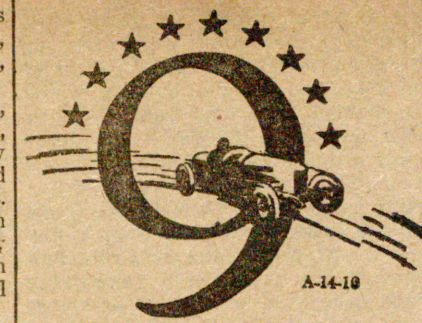

As Mrs. J. W. Mahaffy was not present at the last meeting of the Aid, of which she is president it was suggested that the members meet at some of their homes and go over in a body to surprise Mrs. Mahaffy, and while there plan the menu for the Armistice day dinner. This plan was carried out, the members meeting at the home of Mrs. Ed. Hyink. As they wished Mrs. Mahaffy to be at home when they called, Mrs. Christie was delegated to make an appointment with Mrs. Mahaffy for the evening, as Mrs. Christie was the one appointed to make the call, she started out from Mrs. Hyink's ahead of the rest of the women, when the others finally stole up on tip toes, and in whisper to the Mahaffy house, no Mrs. Christie was to be found. One member delegated herself to peak in the window and see if possibly she were already inside, but she wasn't. Finally after waiting what seemed an interminable time Mrs. Christie walked into the yard, she had passed the Mahaffy house and walked way down to 123rd street before she realized where she was. The community has always before given Mrs. Christie credit for being a pretty, sober reliable woman.

Despite the delay, Mrs. Christie got in safely an Mrs. Mahaffy was a completely surprised but gracious hostess. The menu planned makes one's mouth water, just think about it and the varied program planned by Mrs. Yunker promises a well spent evening.
